The first radon spa in the world
Your specialists on the treatment of musculoskeletal system disorders
DISCOVERING OF THE ORE MOUNTAINS

The spa town of Jáchymov lies in the western part of the Czech Republic near the border with Germany. It is nestled in a picturesque valley below the highest peak of the Ore Mountains, Klinovec (1244 m). It thus forms an imaginary gateway to the western part of the region of the Ore Mountains that has been enticing many with its wealth of natural resources for many ages. Due to the mining of silver and its subsequent processing, Sankt Joachimstahl (as it was known then) became one of the most important towns in Europe towards the end of the Middle Ages. The silver tolar minted in the local mint inspired first settlers coming to the New World to name their currency, i.e. the American dollar. Following the decline of silver mining in the late 17th century, the town experienced a new economic boom with the mining of uranium in the end of the 19th century. Through their research of the radioactivity of uranium elements, Marie Curie-Sklodowska and her husband Pierre Curie laid the foundations for their exploitation in balneology. The world’s first radon spa was founded in Jáchymov in 1906. Thanks to the concentration of radon in the water, it continues to be the most effective radon spa in the world to this date.

Spa Jáchymov
Spa Luhačovice
Spa group Spa & Wellness Nature Resorts

The Jáchymov and Luhačovice spas – places from the opposite ends of the Czech Republic – both with unique natural resources improving the health of all satisfied visitors for over one hundred years.

As Jáchymov Spa and Luhačovice Spa belong to the largest spa group in the country, we briefly introduce the largest spa in Moravia and its offer at the end of this pricelist.
Located at the opposite ends of the country, both spas have been improving the health of spa guests for more than a century with the aid of their rare natural resources. Jáchymov Spa offers unique treatment of the musculoskeletal system in the beautiful ambience of the Ore Mountains. Luhačovice Spa offers well-proven treatment of the respiratory system in the ambience of a picturesque valley with promenades and spa buildings designed by acclaimed architect Dušan Jurkovič. Together, our spas offer spa treatment for the widest spectrum of diseases with more than 2,000 beds for adults and 200 beds for children.
Spas are founded at locations where natural curative resources are present or where the climatic conditions are suitable for providing spa treatment. A specific curative resource may be found at all spas, with the exception of climatic spas. Natural curative resources include peloids or thermal and mineral waters. The latter are further divided based on their composition and effects and radon mineral water falls within this category as well. Radon concentrations in resources used for treatment at other spas around the world range from 0.5 to 2 kBq/l.

In comparison, the concentration of radon in Jáchymov is between 4.5 and 5.5 kBq/l, which is more than double and the same applies to the effects of the treatment. Thus, Jáchymov’s firsts are not a mere matter of history.

The quintessence of the treatment of diseases of the locomotive system in Jáchymov are baths in radon-rich water. Radon, radon-222 isotope respectively, is a chemically inert gas that rises from the depths of the Ore Mountains and dissolves in underground springs. It is a source of soft ionising alpha radiation. During a radon bath, the surface of the body is exposed to an energy shower of radon alpha particles. The alpha particles trigger a chain of physiological reactions, which soothe pain, improve joint movement, blood circulation and healing, stimulate regeneration processes in the tissue of locomotive organs, harmonize vegetative functions, positively affect blood pressure, and they boost the immune system of the body. The penetration of radon into blood circulation is negligible and its biological half-life (elimination of radon from the body) is 20 minutes i.e. the duration of the radon bath.

A radon bath helps blood supply to the bones and joints, alleviates ailments of the spine and joints, works as an antiarthritic means without side effects and can reduce pain for up to 8 - 10 months after treatment. Radon helps after injuries and operations and people with diabetes and gout. For many clients with rheumatism or Bechterew disease, treatment with radon provides indescribable assistance. A radon treatment can be utilized as part of a three-day programme provided by the Jáchymov spa facilities, and always begins with a consultation a doctor. Individual baths can be taken on an out-patient basis. A condition of successful reaction on the part of the organism is a minimum of 10 baths.

How is a bath prepared? Radon water with a temperature of 35 - 37°C and (for the treatment ideal) radon concentration 4-5 kBq/l is released into the bath from below. This unusual method, reminiscent of the emergence of white water, prevents the escape of radon into the air, as would take place were it released through a tap. Then you simply step in and let the bath do its work.

Nowadays four springs are used on the 12th level of the Svornost mine (Concord):

A mix from all four springs is used for the baths. It contains in the bath approx. 4.5-5.5 kBq/l.
AND FOR WHICH DISEASES THE RADON THERAPY IS SUITABLE?

Radon water significantly improves the mobility of the joints, has an antiarthritic effect, improves the immunity of the organism, improves blood supply, operates on cellular chemical processes, stimulates repair mechanisms in the core of cells, and thus reduces the need for analgesics or other medicines. In most cases the effect, even in the case of chronic illnesses, lasts longer than six months. And above all, the treatment is very suitable for older patients.

In general, radon therapy is very delicate, does not burden the organism in terms of thermal or in terms of circulatory or acid-base balance. It is also suitable for post-operative and post-traumatic conditions which require intensive healing and regeneration of damaged tissues, such as total joint replacements, operations of the spine and areal scars resulting from burns. Diseases of peripheral vessels, such as vaso-neurosis, ischaemic disorders when suffering from atherosclerosis of limb arteries, conditions after vein inflammation or rheumatic vasculitis, respond well, too.

Therapeutic procedures
- Radon, herb, pearl and whirlpool baths, underwater massages, Hydroxeur
- Rehabilitation (individual and group therapeutic exercises, swimming pool rehabilitation exercises, reflex and ligament massages, manual techniques)
- X-ray therapy, brachytherapy
- Massages (classic, partial, whole body, multi massages, lymph drainage)
- X-ray therapy
- Physical therapy (ultrasound, diadynamic currents, diathermy, interferential currents, Träbert and irritant currents, laser, magnetotherapy)

To its guests, the hotel offers utmost comfort augmented by a historical atmosphere. The summer terrace invites guests to enjoy a cup of delicious coffee.
TOPOGRAPHIC MAP

The functionalistic building with its glass walls, spacious corridors and rooms was built in 1975 as a medical spa hotel and sensitively reconstructed in 2009.

A dominant in the slope above the valley of Jáchymov, the extensive spa hotel offers a marvellous view of the surrounding countryside. The guests may take advantage of the swimming pool and the sauna world, as well as a wide variety of wellness procedures. YOU SHOULD NOT MISS

The town of Jáchymov has a rich and long history. You certainly should not miss visiting the Hospital Church – the town’s oldest architectural monument, the Chapel of Saint Barbara, the Evangelic Church, the Chapel of Saint Anne, the Royal Mint and the Decanal Church of Saint Joachim. Worth visiting is also the historical building of the Town Hall (1544) and the Svornost Mine (1518) – the oldest silver mine in Jáchymov.

The surroundings of the spa hotels invite for walks through the woods or along nature trails, such as the „Jáchymov – The Pearl of Czech Mining“ trail. In the nearby small town of Boží Dar, which is situated at the highest elevation in the country, you can visit an ethnographic museum, as well as numerous nature trails, such as the Boží Dar Peat Bogs, Božídarský Špičák, or Baby Jesus’ Trail. The spa town of Oberwiesenthal, which is situated at the highest elevation in Germany, offers to its visitors a variety of sports complexes and areas, a museum, an artisan workshop, a sea aquarium, a summer bobsleigh track, or rides in a historic steam train. From Oberwiesenthal, the oldest cabin cableway in Germany built in 1924 or a modern 4-chair cableway will take you to the top of Fichtelberg.

DISCOVER THE ORE MOUNTAINS

In terms of mineralogy, the region of the Ore Mountains belongs among the wealthiest localities in the world. Enchanting forests, mountain creeks and vast plains with unique fauna and flora will captivate you with their diversity, colourfulness, and beauty. With their magical past and yet to be discovered present, the Ore Mountains attract tourists who seek pure nature and active relaxation with a touch of adventure, as well as those who, after exploring the countryside or engaging in sports, are eager to find out how sophisticated curative and relaxation procedures revive their body with new energy, zest for life and, first of all, health.

The offer of leisure and cultural activities at Jáchymov Spa and its surroundings is indeed abundant and often eye-opening. Contact the program specialists who will readily give you advice and recommend a program to your utmost satisfaction. Jáchymov Spa offers a wide variety of leisure activities: Nordic walking, mountain bike rental, miniature golf, tennis, Russian skittles, petanque, outdoor chess, fitness and solarium, aqua centre, Pilates, and Aquafitness. We have also prepared a selection of excursions and trips – to castles, chateaus, or to nearby Karlovy Vary, Mariánské Lázně and Františkovy Lázně, as well as to other interesting places. First-class cultural performances and dance evenings are also quite popular among our visitors.
ACTIVE HOLIDAY IN THE ORE MOUNTAINS

The Ore Mountains are a popular destination of winter sports lovers from around the country, as well as abroad. The Klinovec Ski Area is the largest ski resort in the Ore Mountains and it ranks among the most modern and top class ski destinations in the Czech Republic. Along with the Fichtelberg Ski Area, Klinovec currently offers 33 kilometres of excellently maintained ski runs of all difficulties, which are serviced by 1 cabin cableway, 6 chair lifts, and 10 ski lifts. The offer for skiers was significantly extended with the building of a spacious red ski run leading along the southern slopes of Klinovec to Jáchymov. The Jáchymov ski run is now 100 metres wide, and with the length of 3 kilometres and a drop of 500 metres, it provides a truly luxurious skiing experience. It is served by a 4-chair ski lift with an orange bubble. The Klinovec Ski Area offers all the necessary background facilities and services, such as ski rentals, ski schools, ski bars, restaurants, and après ski tents. In addition to top quality skiing conditions, visitors coming to the region may look forward to other leisure and recreational activities and facilities, such as a snow park with professional shapers, 100km of well-maintained cross-country skiing routes, and a bobsleigh track. Families with children will surely welcome a special ski lift for children, which is free of charge. Children in the kids’ skiing area will be supervised by experienced instructors. Transportation of guests from the spa hotels to the ski run is secured by a skibus. With the ongoing development of the Fichtelberg-Klinovec Ore Mountain Ski Region, the spa is extending its offer with 64 extra beds in the newly reconstructed Dagmar Pension, which will complement the accommodation capacity of the Dalibor Pension. Along with the Agricola Aquacentre, as well as the accommodation and other services provided by the spa complexes, the spa offers ideal conditions for a skiing holiday and the comprehensive offer is presented under the brand:
